But in response to the large class of people who desire to pay in advance we have decided to make the following

The indications are that if Nebraska nises abundant crops this year that the state will experience an era of prosperity never equalled in its history. Everything presages such a condition. The farmers are already in excellent financial shape and money is no longer difficult to get. The writer listened to a farmer talking in one of the Norfolk stores the other day. "Why," said he, "I remember in the summer of '36 there was no such thing as money in circulation about here. It didn't make much difference how good security you was willing to put up, the banks wouldn't let any one have it. Farm sales were all made on time at a high rate of interest. This spring I have attended several sales and the large majority of the farmers walk up and plank down their cash and save their two per cent allowed. The bankers kept what gold they had Today they would rather customers would take it in preference to anything The farmers recognize the changed condition of affairs and if no disaster occurs, prices of real estate in both town and country will advance strongly. Another year will see much more building done in the towns, and with plenty of money in the hands of the people the result cannot but be flush times in this entire region of the country. from Monday's Daily :

The visitation of Bishop Worthington ity church.

In the evening the music was rendered by a full choir. A solo by Master Graham Humphrey was finely given and received much appreciation.

The sermon of the Bishop was drawn from the text "Not Slothful in Business, Fervent in Spirit, Serving the Lord.' He spoke for about 40 minutes in a close, ally his, exhorting the people to make a more intense application of religion to the practical affairs of life.

His address was listened too with the

At the close of the regular services he congratulated the Trinity parish on the marked improvements that had been made in the church property and the business like administration of church affairs. He expressed the hope that what had been done only presaged future progress and usefulness of the Norfolk church

This is probably the last visit that Bishop Worthington will make to this city. Physicians have warned him that on account of failing health he must reside in a lower altitude.

At the next diocese and council to be held at Omaha in May a Bishop Coadjutor will be appointed to assist him, and the bishop will take up his residence in New York.

The services last evening will be long remembered by all who were present. The pleasure of the bishop was added to by the joy of receiving four persons into the full fellowship of the church, by the solemn rites of confirmation.

There are times when the very least any community can do to express their appreciation of the heroism and self sacrifice of their own brave sons and brothers who are so far away as to contribute money that will help alleviate their sufferings and distress...

Such a time is now The World Herald is raising a fund for hospital purposes for the wounded of the first Nebraska at Manila.

It appeals to all Nebraskans to help

It is a noble call and deserves prompt attention

THE DAILY NEWS has consented to receive all sums that the people of Norfolk may desire to give, up to 6 o'clock Friday afternoon next.

That the people may more clearly understand just how this matter is to be handled, the call of the World Herald. is quoted.

"The First Nebraska has again suffered heavy loss in battle. Many of the regiment's brave members have met death and many others are lying in hospitals with sore wounds received in the line of duty. Seven thousand miles from home and leved ones the wounded are tossing on hospital cots and thinking of home and friends. All that a rich and powerful government can do for them is being done, but the richest government cannot make up for the absence of a mother's nursing or the lack of a wifely or sisterly caress upon fevered brows. Any kindly remembrance from home is tenderly enerished by the soldier boys at the front, and to Norfolk yesterday marked another now is the time of all times for Nered letter day in the history of Trin. braska to show to her brave soldiers in the Philippines that Nebraska remem-
